WHAT WE DO

Business has a God-given power and potential for good in the world. Yet too often Christian business people have not been affirmed in their call to business.

We want business men and women to understand God's redemptive work through business in the world. We want to help change the message that Christian business people are hearing and mobilize them for action. We want to serve the church as it rethinks business.

What if the untapped business resources in the church globally were released for missional impact? What if Jesus-following business people were world-leaders at tackling global evils? What if more and more businesses were intentional about lifting communities out of social, economic and spiritual poverty – all to the Glory of God?
