

Business manager fruit and vegetable farm, Central Asia

Project description

A growing fruit and vegetable company in Central Asia would like to expand its activities and its team. The agricultural sector in Central Asia offers huge potential for fruit business development. Our farm started several years ago and is still growing. Currently the farm is expanding its apple orchard, vegetable and fruit greenhouse and nursery plots. The farm is located near the capital city. The purpose of the business in the near future is to start small fruit farming projects in other parts of the country as well. Also the company aims at growing its fruit production section. The company is looking for a manager who wants to assist in the management of the current business and manage the startup of new projects.

Our vision

We, TGS Business & development initiatives, believe that businesses provide a great opportunity for holistic development. A business provides people with an income and a purposeful life. Also through the business and with the profit of the business social activities can be initiated. The aim of the farm is to contribute to both economic as non-tangible change by providing jobs, helping people start their own farm and contributing to social development projects.

Job description

We are looking for someone with a broad scope that can manage a variety of fruit farm projects. You will be involved in managing the business activities in close contact with the local managers. The responsibilities could include amongst others:

- Co-Manage the orchard, nursery and greenhouse projects
- Setting up new fruit business projects over the country
- Training and guiding local staff members and agricultural extension workers
- Controlling the implementation of the annual planning
- Managing the sales and marketing department
- Financial controlling and accounting

Your specific role in the team will be determined based on your experiences, skills and interests

The job is for at least two years, but can be for a longer period. You will live and work near the capital city.

Requirements

Managing a business in a foreign atmosphere requires independence, vision, initiative and hard work. This jobs requires the following skills/knowledge:

- Education in agriculture, environmental management or business
- Knowledge and experience in the fruit or greenhouse sector is an advantage
- The ability to work independently but also able to work in an intercultural team

Payment

In the long run the aim is to pay you a full salary from the company. However, as the company is in its startup/growth phase there is not a full salary available yet. Therefore the first two years you will live from donations. Slowly your salary from the company will grow up to a full salary.
